Botanical Society of Britain & Ireland:
helping you as you learn more about wild plants

You don't have to be a BSBI member to:

- attend our national events: field meetings, workshops & conferences – like this one!
- meet local botanists & discover their plant ID tips
- access free online resources, e.g. plant distribution maps, Species Accounts, videos & training webinars
- read or publish in British & Irish Botany, BSBI's free, online, Open Access scientific journal
- enjoy our country newsletters, News & Views blog & monthly newsletters: all free to view/ download
- discover helpful hints, links & online resources to get you started with plant ID
- check out our range of free ID resources tailored for more advanced botanists, e.g. the Plant Crib
- enter our annual Photo Competition
- contribute plant records to citizen science projects run by BSBI e.g. the New Year Plant Hunt
- take part in projects with BSBI & partners: Wild Flower Hour, Plant Alert & the National Plant Monitoring Scheme

- We offer grants for you to take a plant ID course, carry out plant study or research
- You don't have to be a BSBI member to apply for a grant, but our members are prioritised in the application process!

Joining BSBI brings you many more benefits:

- exclusive access to BSBI's network of 100+ expert plant referees
- three issues each year of BSBI News
- access to all scientific papers published in New Journal of Botany from 2011 to 2017
- volunteering opportunities to help you gain or develop skills & improve job prospects
- money-saving offers on BSBI books e.g. our Handbooks for difficult plants & our Plant Atlas 2020 (due out Spring 2023)
- become part of a botanical community whose data & research inform policy-makers, academia & conservation agencies
- more info in our latest Annual Review
